

Call for Papers

2017 IBS Jobs Conference: Technology, demography and the global division of labour

December 6-7, 2017, Golden Floor Conference Center, Warsaw, Poland

We welcome the submission of papers to the 2017 IBS Jobs Conference.

The main focus of the conference will be on population ageing, technology, the distribution of skills and tasks, and inequalities in the labour markets. Technology progress and demographic change affect labour markets around the world. They influence the structure of labour demand and labour supply, may drive to skill mismatches and can aggravate inequalities in wages, income and job quality. The conference aims to deepen the understanding of how these phenomena shape the labour markets around the world and what policies could be formed to address the resulting challenges. The conference will have an international focus and will gather researchers and policy-makers from around the world. The event will also facilitate the exchange of ideas between the researchers in these topics.

KEY THEMES AND QUESTIONS

- Technology, offshoring and their effects on the global division of work
- Structural change and occupational change
- Demand for skills and tasks
- Population ageing and its impact on labour markets
- Wage inequalities and gender gaps

PROPOSALS

Please submit a full paper or an extended abstract of approximately 1000 words, outlining the research questions, research design and policy conclusions. Intersectoral, interdisciplinary approaches and policy relevant papers on the themes outlined above are most welcome. English is the required language for the proposals and papers.

The proposals should be submitted by e-mail: jobs_conference@ibs.org.pl.
