

LOCAL AUTHORITIES TACKLING ENERGY POVERTY IN PRIVATE MULTI-APARTMENT BUILDINGS

About us

LOCATEE will support local authorities and municipalities in tackling energy poverty at the local level, with a special focus in private multi-apartment buildings. To do so, LOCATEE will co-develop tools and methodologies that will make energy poverty at the regional and local levels more visible and quantifiable for local authorities and relevant actors.

Objectives

Foster cross-sectoral collaboration to effectively address energy poverty and vulnerability.

Develop a comprehensive system to identify, measure, and monitor energy poverty in private multi-apartment buildings.

Provide technical assistance to municipalities in creating and implementing long-term strategies, such as SECAPs, to combat energy poverty for vulnerable households.

Enhance the skills of regional and local authorities to create long-term, sustainable solutions to address energy poverty in multifamily buildings.
